EPISODE 41

PRACTITIONER TO FOUNDER

Leadership, The Performance Tech Gap, and Building What the Industry Needs

FEATURING

Jane Atmodjojo, CFA, CIPM

Co-Founder & CEO

Hosted by Pat Fowler & Doug Spaulding

1 THE PROBLEM

The 30-Year Gap: Why Equiforce Was Built

> Firms need a system that's powerful, usable, easy to deploy, and reasonably priced, but they were always forced to choose between cost, function, and flexibility.

Across three decades and multiple firms, Jane saw the same pattern repeat: small- and mid-sized asset managers couldn't afford enterprise tech, but still needed enterprise-grade performance measurement and GIPS® compliance capabilities.

- Built by Practitioners
  All co-founders came from asset management. They lived through the pain.
- Purpose-Built
  Modern, intuitive, designed specifically for small-to-mid-size managers.
- Streamlined Implementation
  Cut the cost of time and resources. Help firms move faster.

2 ENTREPRENEURSHIP

The Entrepreneurial Leap: Not Guessing

> “
>
> By the time I made this transition, I was not guessing. I had decades of experience showing me what the industry needed and where the gaps were.

Jane's confidence to make the leap came from two places: entrepreneurship is in her family DNA; she grew up around businesses being built. And her career was intentionally shaped across both fintech and asset management to understand every angle of the problem.

ALSO KEY:

Knowing who the right partners would be. "You can know everything about how to build it, but if you have bad partners who aren't aligned, it's not going to work."

3 LEADERSHIP

STAGE 1

Heads-down, detail-oriented, leaning on technical skills. Learning humility when leading more experienced people.

STAGE 2

Less about doing, more about influencing. Stakeholder alignment. Building high-performance teams, not just being high-performance.

STAGE 3

Vision, ownership, empowerment. Designing the system, not just fixing problems within it. Trust your team deeply.

THE THROUGH-LINE:

"The biggest evolution for me is really from managing tasks to leading people, and now shaping the culture."

30 Years of Change: The Investor Sophistication Shift

THEN (1990s)

High-level return
was enough
'What's my return?'

→

NOW (2020s+)

Attribution & contribution
Security-level analysis
Proof of active management value
Delivered fast & clearly

> Why don't I just give my money to a low-fee index fund? Today's investors demand a clear answer.

The demand for transparency has fundamentally reshaped what performance technology must deliver, and how quickly. Clients won't wait. Reporting infrastructure must keep pace.

5 KEY TAKEAWAYS

Don't Guess, Know

Build the experience before you make the leap. Understand the problem from every angle; tech, ops, and the buyer.

Leadership Is a Moving Target

From managing tasks to shaping culture: every stage demands a different version of you. The best leaders keep evolving.

Investors Now Demand Proof

Attribution, contribution, and active management value, delivered fast and clearly. "Just give me my return" is over.

TSG TIME with Pat and Doug

Listen to the Full Episode

tsgperformance.com/podcast